FINE WRITING.

While Arthur McEwen and some other literary giants are crossing pens the public can be sure of one thing at least. No matter who comes out uppermost in the combat, admirers of good English, fine rhetoric and cutting satire, will receive a great treat.

It has been said of McEwen that he is the equal of Thackeray. In the person of Hugh Hume, of the Post he has a worthy foe, though it is the evident purpose of Mr. Hume to switch McEwen from attacks on some public men to a defense of himself.

At any rate the public will watch the struggle with great interest and snap up the opposing reports at the prevailing market rate of each, thus contributing to the coffers of the publishers and satisfying their appetites for that class of literature.

They are discovering in the South that the low price of cotton is due to the decline in silver, and President La Gousse of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange publicly declares such to be the fact. The farmers of the West are also becoming aware of the fact that not only the price of wheat but of everything else which they produce, is governed by the price of silver. These discoveries have been made notwithstanding the efforts of the gold ring and its political tools to keep them from the public. Farmers and cotton planters are beginning to see that their interest in free coinage is as great as that of the miners, and that every vote to keep Democrats or Republicans is a vote to lower the price of wheat, cotton, corn and all the staple products of the country.

No person who votes to maintain the goldbug combination in power should complain if wheat or hay sells below the cost of production.

COAST NEWS.

Ogden advertises it has no work even for its own citizens.

Three masked men tied a wood-chopper living near the Royal mine, ten miles from Milton, and stabbed him several times to induce him to give up his money. They were unsuccessful. When found, the wood-chopper was near dead from loss of blood.

Loggers near Mount Vernon, Wash., while sawing timber, struck a hollow in which they found an old flint-lock musket and a buckskin pouch with $480 in gold and a few silver pieces in it. There were several old letters, but the writing was undecipherable.

At Boise, Idaho, recently, D. M. Custer, who had arrived from Missoula, and C. E. Custer, from Laramie, met at a hotel. Upon comparing notes they discovered they were brothers and an affectionate scene followed. Eighteen years had passed since the brothers last met. Each supposed the other dead.

At South Riverside Sunday, Mr. Fraser was milking the cow, when his wife chanced to approach the animal's calf. The cow instantly rushed at Mrs. Fraser, tossed her high in the air and nearly disemboweled her. Mr. Fraser rushed up with a club, whereupon the cow turned upon him, knocking him down and breaking one of his arms. Mr. Fraser's injuries were severe, but not fatal. The outcome of Mrs. Fraser's injuries is doubtful.

The following story was told by a Knight of the grip about an Irishman who was out of work and made the following comparison: "Abe Lincoln and Grover Cleveland are the greatest men that ever breathed. A bystander admitted the greatness of Mr. Lincoln but wanted to know what Cleveland ever did to be classed with Lincoln. 'Be jabbers,' said the Irishman, 'Lincoln freed all the niggers and Cleveland has freed all the workmen—I haven't had a day's work since he was elected.'"

Charles N. Crittenton, sometimes called the "Millionaire Evangelist" on account of his great wealth, will commence a series of meetings in Odd Fellow's Hall Tuesday evening March 20th.

He has held meetings in many parts of Europe and Asia, and during the last few years has devoted much time to the Pacific Coast, many thousands having been converted through his influence.

Preparatory services are being held in the Methodist and Presbyterian Churches. A large chorus choir will be organized for the occasion, and a cordial invitation is extended to the people of Carson, Empire, Genoa and other places to assist in these interesting services.
